

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What could be done to a girl who is jealous of me?

(2)—What is the best way to test a boy's love?

(3)—I have been cross at a boy for some time. Please suggest the best way for making up.

(4)—If a girl gets cross at a boy who should speak first?

(5)—What is the best way to get rid of a girl who is not wanted?

(6)—Is it proper for a boy to chase a girl home from a party or other amusements? —ANXIOUS.

(1)—Just don't notice her. She is more unhappy than you are.

(2)—Time is the only sure test. If he loves you as much in five years as he does now, you may be pretty sure it's the real thing.

(3)—If the fault was yours just walk up to him, when you see him, tell him you're over your crossness and ask him if he will be friends with you again. Tell him you will try not to be unreasonable again.

(4)—This is answered in No. 3. (5)—Ignore her. (6)—If not too late at night, a respectable boy may escort a respectable girl home; but she ought to be chaperoned by some older member of her family.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 16. Will you please advise me? (1)—Should a girl let her fellow kiss her goodnight, before her mother? (2)—How can you tell when a fellow loves you? (3)—Is a girl of 17 old enough to get married if she can cook, sweep and wash dishes clean? (4)—Why isn't it right for a boy to kiss you? Is there any difference between kissing and shaking hands? (5)—A boy in school who sits beside me is always winking or smiling every time I look at him. How can I make him stop because I don't care any more for him than a weed. (6)—When your beau proposes and asks you to be his wife without asking your folks about it, should you tell your ma on him? (7)—Don't you think it the best plan for young girls to stick to their lessons and let the fellows alone? (8)—Why are old maids jealous when a nice young fellow comes to town?

YOUNG GIRL.

(1)—Not unless the boy is engaged to the girl. (2)—By his respect and consideration for you. (3)—You need more than that to be fit for marriage. A girl should be at least 18 before marrying. (4)—It makes a girl cheap to allow any boy to kiss her. No boy wants to marry a girl who has been kissed by every Tom, Dick and Harry, and if she has let him be free with her, without his asking her to marry him, he naturally thinks she has been free with everybody else. A girl should consider her kisses sacred and keep them all for the man she marries. If she does that she will have nothing to regret. A kiss is an intimate caress. Shaking hands is very much like saying, "How do you do?" to anybody.

(5)—Don't look at him. You might ask your teacher to change your seat. (6)—If you want to marry him, tell him to speak to your parents about it. If he doesn't do that at once, let him go. (7)—Yes indeed. (8)—You probably only imagine they are jealous.

"It seems proper at this time that I make known what will be the practice of this office regarding prosecution of suits instituted in the justice courts. I shall advise the justices throughout the county not to issue warrants against well known and reputable residents of the county without first consulting my office. The responsibility for prosecution will rest on me, and I want to know whether or not there is a real case before a reputable citizen is humiliated by arrest."

The charge preferred against Mr. Wright was that he sold shoes to the county in violation of the state laws, of which he claims to have been ignorant. It develops, however, that he has presented no bill for the same, and until he does so, no crime could be fastened on him, in the opinion of a prominent attorney.

Supervisor Sleight, who is also under arrest on a warrant charging bribery, and sworn to by C. J. Smith, is to have his trial tomorrow morning. It is presumed that the state's attorney will again refuse to prosecute.

HEART IS ON RIGHT SIDE

Chicagoan Cured of Strange Defect by Iowa Surgeons.

Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 16.—During a clinic in the medical department of the Iowa State university yesterday morning, Drs. C. P. Howard and Clarence VanEpps found that the heart of Harry Dean, a Chicago man, was located on his right side. The abnormal development was first discovered by a physician at Maquoketa, who sent Dean to the university specialists. An incision was made and the physicians learned that the heart was held in its unnatural position by a growth which originated in Dean's boyhood and which kept his heart slightly above a spot directly opposite its normal location. The growth was removed and the heart put back in its proper place. The university doctors say Dean is resting easily and that he has an excellent chance to recover.

STATE REFUSES TO PROSECUTE SUPERVISORS

Case Against S. R. Wright Dismissed This Morning in P. H. Wells' Justice Court.

The charge of bribery preferred against Supervisor S. R. Wright by Police Magistrate C. J. Smith was dismissed this morning in the court of Justice P. H. Wells, before whom the case was taken on a change of venue from the court of Justice W. F. Schroeder, who issued the warrant. Mr. Wright was represented by Attorney W. C. Allen. The state was not represented, and when the justice called Mr. Thompson on the telephone to find what was his pleasure in the matter, Mr. Thompson's refusal to prosecute led to the dismissal.

Regarding the matter, State's Attorney Thompson made the following statement to a representative of The Argus: "I was not consulted in regard to the swearing out of this warrant for Wright and no evidence sufficient to secure a conviction has been placed in my hands. Mr. Wright is a reputable citizen of this county, and in my opinion the proper place to file a charge against him is with the grand jury. Being very busy myself with the grand jury just now and not having been allowed an assistant, I could do nothing other than refuse to prosecute when I was asked to do so this morning."

LECTURE SERIES CLOSES FRIDAY

Mrs. D. B. Wells Tells of Education in China and Books of the Mormons.

Mrs. D. B. Wells, lecturing at the Broadway Presbyterian church, for the Woman's Missionary Social union, in her fourth talk took as her subjects, "Sacred Books and Teachings of Mormonism," and "Educational Revolution in China."

In speaking of the education in China, Mrs. Wells said "You remember how highly a scholar is held and the things from which China is turning that was spoken of in a former lecture. Now an honor scholar is the highest possible honor given a scholar. The government examinations which a scholar must pass before he can become an honor scholar, are held once in four years, and of the 10,000 young men taking it only three pass. The manner in which the governor of the province chooses them is by placing the examination papers upon an umbrella, twirling it, the first three which fall from it are the ones chosen."

"These examinations last three periods of 36 hours each, with two intervals of six hours each. The victim, for he can be called little else, is locked in a cell 7x9, with an iron grating in the front. They are then given pencils and paper and two topics upon which they are to write all that they have committed on these subjects."

"The parents send their boys to schools where they commit large portions of the manuscripts of Confucius and Lopey, no effort is made to have the pupils understand what they memorize. Although the emperor began efforts to abolish these examinations, the honor of so doing belongs to the emperor's daughter."

"The first examination held after the examination had been abolished was in 1907. The young men coming from some of the far off provinces were astonished to see the cells gone and in their places were large, well lighted rooms, in which were tables, after being seated they were given paper, pencils and a set of questions, the first they had ever seen. The only three questions now recorded are: What is electricity? What would be the effect upon China of the immediate enforcement of the Monroe doctrine? How is it that foreign nations, especially the United States, have such good, faithful, honest, intelligent public officials? This was the first time that the Chinese men had ever been asked to think."

"The education of Chinese boys and girls can not be obtained entirely through the text books. The great cry of the stomach, and poverty can be done away with by education."

"What China needs is a knowledge of soils, a practical agricultural and tree culture, for China has the richest soil in the world. They need education in metallurgy, railroads medicine, etc. They need education on how to deal with other nations, value of athletic culture and in domestic science."
